WESTERN ACCORD NOTED

Long Deadlock On Disarmament Reported Ended

LONDON (UPI) — The deadlock on a Western disarmament policy to be presented at the East-West Geneva talks next month was broken Friday, diplomatic sources said.

The United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada were said to have reached an agreement "in principle." Details will be worked out within the next four weeks, in time for the March 15 Geneva Conference.

The outline of the policy was understood to include a controlled-phase disarmament plan covering outer space surprise attacks, the delivery systems of nuclear weapons and an international control group.

PROPOSAL

It was learned that the West also had proposed a special police force to be created in West Berlin in the event allied troops were removed from the city as a solution to the Berlin question.

The force, which would provide a substitute for the troops and would supplement the existing police, would be recruited from West Berliners.

But a West Berlin city government spokesman termed the proposal "completely absurd."

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin both have opposed the reduction of Western troops in the city.

The Soviet ambassador to Bonn, Andrei Smirnov, repeated Friday the Russian warning that supplies to the city might be cut off.

Taped Talk Enters Ship Slaying Case

BOSTON (UPI) — A tape recording erupted into a controversial issue Friday in the murder trial of Dutch seafarer Willem Van Rie, accused shipboard slayer of a fun-loving divorcee.

Superior Judge Frank J. Murray retired to the privacy of his chambers to listen to the tape recording of a television newsman's interview with Boston police homicide Capt. Joseph B. Fallon. The tape was not played back for the all-male jury.

The balding, bespectacled detective denied telling the newsman (Joe Harrington of WHDH-TV) that he believed "murder was impossible" in the Sept. 18 death of pretty Lynn Kaufman.

The state has charged that the 31-year-old Van Rie beat Miss Kaufman and heaved her body over the side of the Dutch freighter Utrecht after shipboard intimacies on a 44-day voyage from Singapore.

BODY

The 23-year-old woman's body was found the next day on Spectacle Island in Boston Harbor.

The defense broke in hard on Fallon, demanding to know whether he ever said to the TV newsman "I believe murder was impossible" because a motive was lacking.

"I never made that statement," said Fallon, who testified for the second day in a row.

Defense lawyer W. Langdon Powers, then asked Fallon if he ever said the injuries suffered by Miss Kaufman might have been caused when she "inadvertently struck an object" on the side of the Utrecht. Fallon said he never made the statement in "that form."

Under defense questioning, Fallon acknowledged that Van Rie was allowed only 10 minutes for a quick cat nap during exhaustive police interrogation after his arrest.

Author Of AF Manual Defiant

By GARTH JONES
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Air Force civilian employee who wrote a controversial military manual on communism and religion defiantly defended the text book Friday.

He is Homer H. Hyde, 54, a short, gray-haired man with 18 years service with the Air Force.

The manual, prepared for non-commissioned officers, came under attack by the National Council of Churches, which claimed the textbook says church groups have been infiltrated by Communists.

Hyde told reporters Friday that, "I felt the manual could not be completely effective as a tool or combatting communistic activities with which the NCO might come in contact either on or off duty unless he had all the evidence of such activity available to him that it was possible to provide."

Chessman Case Could Affect Finch

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A reprieve for convicted author Caryl Chessman may play an indirect but vital role in the case of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff, accused in the slaying of the surgeon's wife.

The Finch-Tregoff trial was in recess Friday until Tuesday, when the prosecution and defense begin their summations. The jury of seven women and five men was locked up in a downtown hotel without access to newspapers, television or radio until the trial resumes.

It now is expected the case will go to the jury by next Friday.

Church Is Geared To Modern Times

Sunday School lessons, which used to consist mainly of Bible stories and verses, are being widely remodeled today into the perspectives of childhood.

Instead of narrative facts, the emphasis is on underlying meanings.

The age-old ideas are being translated into terms of children's present-day surroundings.

The teaching is not so much by telling, as by exemplifying in action.

"A child, like all of us, actually learns what he experiences, not what he hears about," said Phoebe Anderson, of Glenview, Ill., author of a revamped nursery curriculum for the United Church of Christ.

Signal Given To Tighten Rights Fight

Senate Will Be In Session Longer Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders signaled Friday for a tightening squeeze next week on Southern senators battling against civil rights measures.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) told newsmen he plans to start Saturday sessions and to keep the Senate in session somewhat longer each day. It has been averaging about eight hours daily since the debate started Monday.

He also served notice the Senate will have no Washington's Birthday holiday next Monday, that the debate will go on after the traditional reading of Washington's Farewell Address by Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah).

REQUIRED

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, said steps of this type are required if the Senate is going to overcome Southern resistance and pass a civil rights bill.

The issue was joined when Johnson brought a minor House-passed Stella, Mo., school-leaving bill before the Senate and then announced that civil rights measures could be offered to it as amendments.

Johnson had committed himself last August to bringing civil rights up in the Senate by Feb. 15 even if no bill had been passed by the House or recommended by a Senate committee.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) bitterly assailed this action Friday, saying the Senate is "proceeding in irresponsible disorder meriting national contempt."

"The purpose is to use confusion for enactment of punitive, vindictive, and unconstitutional legislation," he told the Senate.

Byrd was the first of the day's speakers for the Dixie forces, after the Senate had spent more than 3 1/2 hours arguing over national defense.

A spokesman for the Republican National Committee charged meanwhile that Southern senators' attacks on the procedure used by Johnson to get civil rights proposals before the Senate were part of a staged drama.

Val Washington, director of the GOP committee's minorities division, said in a statement that, "The Southerners, including Johnson, know that passage of a civil rights bill is inevitable."

Danish Premier Dies At 53

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Danish Premier Hans C. Hansen, 53, son of a shoemaker, died Friday night.

Hansen, leader of the dominant Socialist party, was rushed to Copenhagen's National Hospital Dec. 29 suffering from pleurisy. A year earlier he had been operated on for a throat tumor.

Then, a half hour after the birth, the news was made public. "The queen was safely delivered of a son at 3:30 p.m. (10:30 p.m. e.s.t.) today," the announcement said. "Her majesty and the infant Prince are both doing well."

A beaming Prince Philip, who is 32, went into the Belgian Suite almost immediately to see his 33-year-old wife and new son. He emerged and told members of the royal household and palace staff, "It's a boy."

Book Notes Utensil Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Brushes are used for many purposes, such as for scrubbing woodwork, pots and pans."

"The refrigerator is used to preserve food in its normal temperature without freezing."

"Knives are used to cut..." This is news? Well, apparently the Air Force thinks somebody in its ranks needs such instructions.

They are part of a new Air Force cooks manual turned up by Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn.), a former Army colonel. They come on top of other pamphlets telling airmen how to wash officers' dogs, mix drinks, baby sit and get dates for bachelor officers.

NO FAULT

Kowalski found no fault with sections of the new document dealing with complicated kitchen equipment. But he thought it was a "waste of the taxpayers' money to include the following advice:

Discoverer Fails In Mighty Blast

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The trouble-haunted Discoverer satellite series Friday had its most spectacular failure — a mighty explosion directly over this space base that had all hands diving for cover from raining debris.

The towering white two-stage missile veered off course toward populated areas a few seconds after launch and the Air Force deliberately destroyed it directly over the launch complex.

A huge orange fireball flared in the sky. It was blotted by a mushrooming cloud of black smoke from which sailed missile chunks the size of automobiles.

WARNING

"Take cover! Take cover! Take cover!" blared the warning over the base loudspeaker.

Officers and men scrambled under tables, trucks and autos. Some stood tensed, looking up, ready to dodge if a piece headed for them. There were no reported injuries and no damage.

The 78-foot Thor-Agena rose at 12:16 p.m. from its sea-side launch pad for what was intended to be the 10th try at a vital Air Force goal, orbiting a satellite then recovering its space capsule.

Its gimbal mounted engine wobbled after it began belching yellow fire. As the missile rose it trembled and wobbled when it got a few hundred feet up. Then, instead of nosing over toward the south and its intended polar orbit, it veered northeast toward the sea-coast towns of Santa Maria and (Continued On Page Two-A)

Store Closes Counter As Fray Looms

Negroes Sit At Fountain During Protest

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI) — A five-and-dime store where Negro sitdown protests over segregated seating were launched in Virginia last week closed its lunch counter Friday when some 60 Negro college students returned.

The F. W. Woolworth store here, which re-opened its counter Thursday after closing for a week waited until all stools at the counter were taken by Negroes and then put up a sign saying "Soda fountain closed."

The Negroes, operating in shifts began taking seats at the counter about 11 a.m. But five white boys including one with a dog chain prominently hanging from his pocket and a brass bar on the counter before him refused to budge.

LEFT

The white youths left about 2:30. Negroes took their seats and store manager Gordon Marks closed the counter.

There was no violence. Five uniformed policemen patrolled the store in this port city where a chain-swinging street fight between whites and Negroes followed a similar protest Tuesday.

Meanwhile, a committee of North Carolina churchmen pledged its support Friday to a plan which would give Negroes "equality" of service at lunch counters serving whites.

The Committee on Human Relations of the North Carolina Council of Churches issued the statement in response to the demonstrations staged by southern Negro college students in five states.

The committee, headed by a Duke University professor and a Baptist minister, both white, recognized "the democratic and moral right of Negroes to equality of service at the lunch counters of stores serving the public."

HEALTH SERVICE RECORDS

Foaming Water Presents Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Does your drinking water foam? If so, it may be caused by the handy detergents used by housewives. The end of this particular pollution problem—not now regarded as a hazard—is not in sight.

Records of the Public Health Service Friday showed:

1. In many parts of the country suburban householders with private wells find their drinking water foams like the head on a glass of beer. The foam is caused by detergent seeping from septic tanks into underground water supplies. Analysis may not show any other contamination from sewage.

2. There have been instances in times of drought and low-stream flow when streams used for public water supplies contained enough detergent to cause foam.

Action Adds To Police Scandals

CHICAGO (UPI) — A secret witness and four youthful burglars carried the Chicago police scandal into new areas Friday.

A grand jury heard a secret witness charge that police shake-downs and payoffs from 1955 to 1957 drove him out of his restaurant-saloon business in the stockyards district.

Offering to take a lie test to support his charges, the witness said he could identify police to whom he paid amounts ranging from $2 to $175.

WITNESS

The witness also said he could prove that the charges of selling to a minor for which his saloon was closed were false.

Earlier, four burglars, ranging from 20 to 23 years of age, implicated at least eight policemen in protection bribes and selling their loot.

Paul D. Newey, chief investigator for the state's attorney, withheld the identity of the policemen pending the filing of charges.

Newey said, however, that he "feels strongly" the accusations were truthful since the stories were told separately and were essentially in agreement.

Capt. Harry Penzin, of the Damen Ave., police district, said he had ordered an interrogation of 12 patrolmen and detectives connected with the previous arrests of the four burglars.

Death Sentence In State Topic

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. Jesse D. McInnis said Friday he will ask the Legislature to abolish the death sentence in Louisiana.

McInnis, of St. Tammany Parish, said he wants to sample public thinking on the matter but believes capital punishment should be done away with in interest of justice.

It was the eighth stay in 12 years for the 38-year-old Chessman, under a double death sentence since 1948 from Los Angeles for "lovers' lane" crimes which included sex depravity but no loss of life.

Gov. Brown, who previously had refused clemency, said he took the action:

1. After a telegram from the U.S. State Department said there might be hostile demonstrations during President Eisenhower's visit to Uruguay and Brazil if Chessman were executed.

2. Because he wants the State Legislature, which meets Feb. 29 to consider doing away with the death penalty.

Motorists Stranded, Lines Break

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gale winds and heavy snow staggered traffic and snapped power lines in stormy sections of the Northeast Friday.

The snow shut down a 175-mile stretch of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, and forced hundreds of motorists to seek refuge in restaurants.

The biggest dump was in the Somerset area, where up to 1 1/2 feet of snow was reported.

Many roads, from Maryland to Maine, were blocked.

Telephone and power lines broke under the weight of snow. More than 100,000 homes in New Jersey were cut off from electricity and communication.

NO LIGHT

About half of the 3,200 homes in Meyersdale, Pa., were without light and power.

Many schools were closed in the huge snow belt.

A plane crashed in Paterson, N.J., killing two occupants.

New York State counted three highway deaths.

Snow spread a paralyzing blanket from Pennsylvania into New York and New England.

Snow up to 14 inches was reported in parts of northeastern Pennsylvania. It measured 10 inches in the Poconos resort area. All public schools were closed in Scranton, Pa.

The snow ranged up to 13 inches in the upper Catskills of New York, and 6 to 15 inches in the mountain districts of western and northern New England.

Gale winds reared drifts and caused property damage. Gale warnings were posted from Hatteras, N.C., to Eastport, Maine. Tides ran several feet higher than normal.

Gusts of more than 65 m.p.h. were recorded in Allentown, Pa. The Coast Guard reported a vessel ran aground in blinding snow on Ram Island Ledge off the harbor mouth at Portland, Maine.

Gusts up to 73 and 94 m.p.h. lashed Long Branch, N.J.

Charmed Life Of Chessman Spared Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's governor, stirred by world reaction and a telegram from the U.S. State Department, spared Caryl Chessman's life Friday when he was less than 10 hours and a dozen steps from death in the gas chamber.

A jangling telephone outside the green-walled execution room flashed word at 12:05 a.m. from Gov. Edmund G. Brown in the executive mansion at Sacramento to Warden Fred Dickson: "You can send him back upstairs. I am going to grant him a 60-day reprieve."

It was the eighth stay in 12 years for the 38-year-old Chessman, under a double death sentence since 1948 from Los Angeles for "lovers' lane" crimes which included sex depravity but no loss of life.

Gates Orders Manual Review

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. Friday ordered a sweeping review of military training manuals and publications.

The Pentagon chief took the action in noting that some service publications have drawn public fire lately including matters "inappropriate to military training."

Further, Gates said, some of them contained "damning inaccuracies" and lacked good taste or common sense.

The most recent instance concerning the review order was publication of an Air Force training manual which said Communists have infiltrated churches. The manual has been withdrawn and republished.

Other manuals have contained explicit instructions on how an airman should wash an officer's dog, and how to make cocktails for parties.

Secretary Gates informed the secretaries of the Air Force, the Army and the Navy that he will hold them personally responsible for carrying out his instructions to eliminate matter that might be inconsistent with Defense Department and national policy.

Gates told the service secretaries to start reviews immediately and to recommend any changes needed in methods of preparing and promulgating the manuals and military publications.

Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp, shortly before Gates' memo was released, instructed all major Air Force commands to establish immediately panels of officers to read and evaluate all proposed manuals. The officers on 1959, shooting of Barbara Jean Finch, 33.

But early Friday, Gov. Edmund Brown granted a 60-day reprieve to Chessman, whose 12-year legal battle to avoid execution for kidnap and rape has become an international issue. In reprieving the so-called "red-light bandit," the governor said he intended to turn over the matter of capital punishment to the state Legislature.

Although the Legislature refused for the second time to abolish the death penalty in last year's regular session, it now is regarded as a distinct possibility that execution may be eliminated from California law.

A legal authority who played a major role in the Chessman case said that if the Legislature should abolish the death penalty, all death row inmates would be spared. That would mean that the jury deliberating the Finch-Tregoff case could vote the maximum penalty for one or both, but still leave their ultimate fate in the hands of the Legislature.

There was also some indication the wide public attention given the Chessman case was at least partially responsible for the decision of Superior Judge Walter R. Evans to lock up the jury for the weekend. He apologized to the panel members but said he felt the step was necessary because of "pressures" surrounding the trial.

What will happen to the two younger plaintiffs in the future will be determined after the board plan is submitted and approved.

U. S., Brazil Clash Related

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazilian newspapers Friday reported a clash between American and Brazilian security officers over President Eisenhower's now-cancelled visit next week to the Brazilian white house.

Some newspapers claimed the argument had led to the cancellation of Eisenhower's visit next Thursday afternoon to the Catele Palace, official residence of President Juscelino Kubitschek, but this was firmly denied in Washington by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Miss Gowan started the competition by waving her scarf at the town clock and murmuring, "May the best man win."

The competitors were to walk or run to Flint and back, the winner to get Miss Gowan in marriage.

After waving the scarf Jean jumped into an automobile and followed for a short distance. But she returned to Bangor, expecting to greet the winner here some time Saturday. The twins figured that they would cover the distance in about 30 hours.

They started off briskly, hitting a pace of about five miles an hour. Vaughan took a lead, but he was overtaken shortly, and 10 miles out the twins were puffing up the hills neck and neck.

In a car accompanying them was a friend, Patrick Beer. He was hauling hot drinks and changes of socks and shoes.

The twins, of Ipswich, are electronics engineering students at the University College of Bangor, Miss Gowan, of St. Annes on Sea, is studying agricultural chemistry.

of the Genesis account but points up the theme of it in a story about a single tree.

"A child cannot conceive of the whole of creation," said Mrs. Anderson, "but he can grasp the meaning of it if it is boiled down to a tree in his own backyard."

This typifies a general tendency among many major denominations. In recent years, Episcopalians, American Baptists and Presbyterians, among others, have geared lessons more to the context of children's familiar environment.

Some churches, however, stick to the traditional format, with each week's lesson focused on a specific Bible text.

Altogether, about 42 million youngsters are enrolled in Sunday or Sabbath Schools. The movement or such instruction started 130 years ago in Gloucester, England. Until then, it was up to the parents.

Church leaders insist parents still have a prime responsibility. "Christianity is learned through relationships of love, trust, understanding and forgiveness," Mrs. Anderson said. "Words, phrases, stories and prayers don't produce Christians."

"Children go through them faithfully up to the age of rebellion, memorizing books of the Bible, the 10 Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and a hundred verses and still don't know two hoists about Christianity."

In fact, she noted, early Christians imparted faith, not by liturgies and formulations, but through loving mutual concern. The Bible describes the contention: "see how those Nazarenes love one another."

That is the heart of the message the United Church sought to inject into its new curriculum. Work on it has been going on since 1952, with more than 30 writers and scores of other experts involved in the million-dollar project.

The complete set of new courses, graded by age, won't be finished until 1963, but the first one, for 3-year-olds, is ready for use starting this fall.

It includes only two biblical

Discoverer Fails In Mighty Blast

San Luis Obispo, a score or more miles away.

Fifty-six seconds after launch, at an altitude of 20,000 feet, the range safety officer destroyed it. The big blast was directly over the press observation site. Most of the newsmen scattered like quail, ducking under barbecue tables. But the wind blew the descending fragments toward the launch area, 4,000 feet away.

One big chunk lit perhaps 100 feet from the blockhouse control center.

After the blast a large fragment that appeared to be the second stage sailed seaward, landing about a quarter-mile offshore.

This was the second straight preorbit failure for the Discoverer. The last one failed to orbit because of a fueling malfunction.

Six Discoverers have achieved orbit but so far, due to failure of various kinds, no capsule has been recovered.

ILLITERACY DOWN

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Mrs. Bernard Waxman appeared before the East Carroll Parish School Board at its monthly meeting to express the gratitude of workers for a class for retarded children.

The Board hired an instructor for the parish school system at its January meeting.

Also on the Board's agenda was a motion to adopt a fire ant program for school lands located in ward seven. The action was recommended by the Louisiana Department of agriculture. The move was approved by the board.

The Board rented 77.8 acres of cotton land to Carl Pogue for 1960. They also announced that the Bear Wallow plantation, consisting of 640 acres, will be leased for farming. The bid, according to provisions of the bid advertisement, will cover a five year period.

Mrs. S. C. Guenard and Mrs. Muriel Lovell were hired as replacement teachers. R. B. Stevenson was hired to replace B. F. Brown as driver of a Negro school bus. Brown resigned.

Union Parish Road Contract Given James Co.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said plans call for widening existing 18-foot concrete pavement to 24 feet and bituminous hot-mix surfacing 24 feet wide. Work has already begun and will require seven months for completion, it was pointed out, with the contractor required to provide for and maintain through and local traffic at all times during the construction period.

Fred M. Hill of Monroe is the member of the State Board of Highways from the Fifth Congressional District, in which the project is located. Richardson said F. B. Jurors Here En Route To Ohio Display

Two Ouachita Parish police jurors leave tonight for Ohio, where they will inspect new, large "gradalls" — ditch digging and cleaning equipment.

M. W. Montgomery, jury president, discussed the inspection following yesterday afternoon's Purchasing Committee meeting in the Jury office at the Courthouse.

All expenses for Jurors L. B. Pettit, ward three; G. H. Owens, ward nine, and highway superintendent Hardy Wells will be paid by Contractors Equipment Company of Monroe. A. K. Joseph of the local concern will accompany the jurors.

INSPECTION

C. K. McClure, of the company, said that the inspection will include views of the equipment being manufactured at the New Philadelphia, Ohio factory near Cleveland, and actual demonstrations of the gradall.

He described the gradall as "much more powerful and larger than any now in use in the parish." It will dig and maintain large drainage ditches and canals.

The jurors will be back in Monroe Wednesday morning.

The purchasing committee, headed by W. J. Vinson of ward two, approved purchase of road supplies, and supplies for the West Monroe Agriculture building, Police Jury office, Juvenile Courthouse and jail.

Members of the committee include: L. B. Pettit, vice-chairman, ward three; Irvin W. Kilpatrick, L. U. Fourmy and A. E. Montgomery, all of Ward 10; Robert W. Irby, ward three and Tom Hicks, ward five.

$95,000 Bond Issue Vote Set

WINNSBORO (Special) — Ward 4 of Franklin parish property-owning voters will vote on a $95,000 bond issue on Tuesday. The bonds are to be run for 20 years at an interest rate not exceeding five per cent.

According to M. D. Peel, superintendent of education, if the bonds are approved funds will be used to replace a classroom building at Crowley High school. The State Fire Marshal condemned the building for fire last year. Five classrooms are being used in the old building now.

The new building will include six classrooms, a teachers' lounge, and a work and storage room. Part of the funds will also be used to construct a loading ramp, covered walks, and do some additional work on the football stadium.

Shaw Chorale Slates Two Tech Shows

RUSTON (Special) — The Robert Shaw Chorale will present Bach's Mass in B Minor in two performances at Louisiana Tech. The first concert will be for the public on Monday, Feb. 22, at 8 p.m. in Howard Auditorium. Students will attend at the same time on Tuesday, Feb. 23. Both performances are exclusively for members of the Louisiana Tech Concert Assn.

An enlarged group of 40 singers and 30 musicians will present Bach's masterpiece. This is the first time in musical history that a professional company of musicians is performing this kind of tour. This national itinerary marks the twelfth for the organization since its beginning in 1948. Before founding the Chorale, Robert Shaw studied in both the United States and Europe and gained practical experience with such musicians as Fred Waring and Billy Rose.

The unique quality of the group's sound is due to the fact that Shaw scatters the various voices all over the stage instead of keeping to the customary groups.

and the best fitted animal will be selected from pigs, sheep and calf exhibits.

The judging contest will count toward the parish Achievement Day trophy to be awarded April 23.

Livestock Show Slated For Union

FARMERVILLE (Special) — The annual Union Parish junior livestock show and judging clinic will be held Feb. 27 at the fair grounds here beginning at 9 a.m.

A judging clinic and contest will be conducted by Bill Lofton, instructor at Northeast State College in Monroe and Buck Green, associate county agent in Lincoln Parish. Lofton will conduct a training period for the contestants on "How to Judge Livestock" and Green will instruct on judging dairy cattle.

Judging competition will be held after the classes.

Thirty boys and girls will have animals on exhibit for the afternoon competition in showmanship

Sentence Due For Man In Robbery Case

The third of three Negroes charged with robbing a white man in December faces sentencing, after his conviction yesterday by an all-white jury in Fourth District Court.

Mack Taylor Jr., 31, Negro of 12 Ross Alley, was found guilty after the five-man jury deliberated 17 minutes, in the final trial of felony week.

Earlier this year, Judge David I. Garrett sentenced Dennis Holland and Henry "Son" Banner, both Negroes, to four years each in the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola after they admitted robbing C. C. Clary.

Taylor was charged along with the other men, but denied it. Judge Jesse Heard, who presided over yesterday's three-hour trial, deferred sentencing on Taylor until next week.

CHARGED

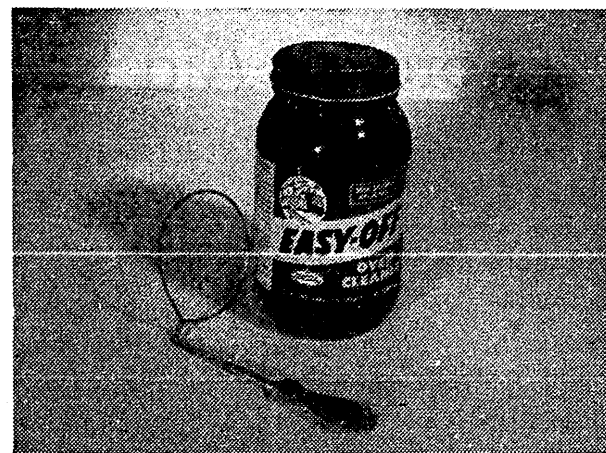

The three Negroes were charged with robbing Clary, of Quitman, on the night of December 20. Loot included a small amount of cash, cigaret lighter, billfold and pocket knife.

Witnesses, including Banner and Holland, said the Negroes and Clary talked for a few minutes in the 200 block of 14th Street, in the colored section of Monroe.

Clary, a nine-year-old Negro boy, Taylor, and Police Officers Maj. H. B. Johnson, Ansley Reed and P. R. McPee also testified.

Jurors were W. K. Crow, C. J. Moseley, H. L. Prestridge, H. O. Russell and Charles Thomas.

Foreign Aid Request

President Eisenhower handed Congress a request for $4,175,000,000 in foreign aid money Tuesday and urged the lawmakers to refrain from cutting the sum drastically.

He said that the money was needed to keep the uncommitted millions in the world from going to the Communist camp and thereby becoming Communists themselves.

The purported need for this fantastic sum was dramatized by the President, who cited his recent 11-nation excursion and the impressions he received while traveling concerning the necessity for United States dollars to continue to pour from this country to other nations.

The President's reasoning that we can buy the friendship of the uncommitted peoples is a little naive. Anyone who can be bought into any camp, philosophy or even in everyday life is not exactly the most desired type of friend. If their decisions not to become Communist are based on the dollar sign, then what assurance do we who have done the purchasing have that if the Russians offer a larger amount that they will not change their minds — after spending the money that we so graciously donated — and swing to Communism.

The idea of "dollar diplomacy" is becoming one of the most tiresome philosophies ever propounded in Washington. The taxpayers of the United States are burdened so now until it begins to be impossible to withstand it. And to think of an even larger outpouring of the dollar is an awesome notion.

The rest of the world must surely think by now that the United States is the original "horn of plenty" and that money flows as freely from our country as does the propaganda from the Soviet Union.

Americans are asked to contribute more each year to support the peoples of the world against Communism. Our money is spent, according to Congressional reports, in some strange ways. And one traveling congressman who has seen at first hand the need — or rather the lack of need — for increased foreign aid spending has called the President's latest request for money an "unrealistic worldwide give-away."

Much of the money that President Eisenhower has asked of Congress will go to the same nations that have been getting big chunks of tax money from this country for years. If they have not yet become convinced that the West and the free, anti-Communist world is their friend and the Reds are merely trying to trick and enslave them, then it is not feasible to believe that any additional funds will help to convince them. They are really "from Missouri" and it would seem that the cost of convincing them is actually prohibitive.

The Soviet Union's prime aim in the cold war — and their best weapon against the United States — is for this country literally to spend itself to death. The final conquest of America will be relatively simple for the Communists if the nation is "broke" and cannot finance any retaliation against aggression.

This is no secret. Khrushchev has said before that he would pounce on the economic weakness of capitalism and that is surely his intention.

Why should Russia engage the United States in open conflict when it can sit back and let us give all our money away? The Reds want the world intact when they take over. They don't want it destroyed by a lot of nuclear explosions.

And the simplest way for them to achieve this objective is to wait us out and let our economy capitulate.

No, it would seem that more and more outpouring of American money to uncommitted lands is not the answer to the Communist threat. Rather, they should be taught to appreciate freedom and to forge ahead for themselves. Thinking people will not become Communists. But pampered ones might.

Subliminal To 'Payola'

Several months ago, there was talk in some quarters about a new kind of psychological approach known as "subliminal advertising." It is strange this talk preceded the current "payola" investigations, which are an outgrowth of the most subtle methods of product pushing.

The most recent turn in the investigations came when Arnold "Woo Woo" Ginsberg, disc jockey for a Boston radio station, testified he had received $4,400 from record suppliers within a three-year period without being asked any specific services.

In a word, this is what "payola" is all about. The tune-plugging Ginsberg was expected to do for the $4,400 represents the "under the table" approach to selling.

The testimony followed a Boston record distributor's account of paying $1,400 to the station for weekly promotion of his records and giving $2,000 to disc jockeys. This sort of catering to the disc spinner rather than the advertising section of the radio station itself is comparable to paying more for the lubrication than for the motor or chassis of an automobile.

Apparently, certain record distributors thought little of the subliminal approach to advertising and wanted more of the direct, plugging sales talk.

At any rate, the congressional investigations have served to show the authority of the Federal Communications Commission in such matters. Chairman Oren Harris of Arkansas pointed out the stations are aware they can have their licenses revoked for concealing payments intended to procure "plugs" on the air and that is one reason many are hesitant about giving information to the committee.

Harris said he objected to the payments which resulted in big buildups for records falsely represented as the "public's choice." He referred to a record dealer who had paid disc jockeys to handle a recording as the "gold platter of the week."

The response from the dealer was an admission that much of the handout money was wasted — that most all distributors were paying for a "top something or other."

It is to be hoped that investigations of the "payola" racket will not lead to greater federal controls but rather an application of existing ethics in the field of promotion.

Reds And Indecent Films

Efforts Made To Get Communists Back In As Pictures Made Abroad Bring Increased Vulgarity

In 1947, the major studios of the motion picture industry met at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York to discuss the box office resistance of the American people to pictures manufactured by persons who were known to be Communists, pro-Communists or fellow-travelers. Out of that meeting came "The Waldorf Declaration of 1947."

Subsequent to this, various efforts were made by individuals, groups and even management to evade the rigidities of this declaration. Various blacklists were devised, some of them correct, others outrageously incorrect. The most blacklisted of all writers and artists were the conservatives who were kept out of studios for years because of their patriotism. In due course, a voluntary committee of four men joined with management in the major studios and set two specific goals:

1. Those who were not Communists, those who were unjustly accused, were given an opportunity and a technique for clearing themselves of the charges made against them.

Of the first category, my estimate is that more than 300, among them many principal personalities in motion pictures, went back to work. However, while this was happening, the United States Supreme Court ordered the large studios to divorce the ownership of studios, block-booking was prohibited, television became popular and the motion picture business became disturbed.

Clever men, mostly from outside this industry, discovered a method for licking some of the problems which the major studios faced: They imported cheaply produced pictures from abroad, particularly from Italy. It was not long before all motion picture companies were making pictures abroad, utilizing lower wage employees, dealing with Communist unions to which they paid check-off dues, even for American players and bringing into this country some astonishingly indecent films.

The public response was mixed. The large, well-established studios obtained funds by selling surplus real-estate and old films to television. A large number of irresponsible and even amoral independent companies went into the business. Then came the great spectacles of Cecil B. de Mille and Mike Todd and pictures were again making real money.

Two important efforts have been made in recent years, principally by independents, but soon followed by the older studios:

1. To smash the various codes of decency;

2. To restore the right of Communists to work.

Otto Preminger produced two pictures which practically smashed the established codes of decency — "The Moon Is Blue" and "The Man With the Golden Arm." The exhibition of these films was widely fought but the battle was lost. Since then a large number of questionable pictures were exhibited which in earlier years would not have been shown. Also motion picture advertising has deteriorated.

Now Otto Preminger and Kirk Douglas have given employment to Dalton Trumbo who has thus far not chosen to make any effort toward clearing his name of the Communist taint. Nedrick Young has been employed by Stanley Kramer. Martin B. McKelney, the national commander of the American Legion, responded to this repudiation of the Waldorf Declaration by the following:

"I stated that the American Legion will marshal all necessary resources to alert its membership, the general public, loyal Americans in and out of the film industry and motion picture exhibitors, to the official records of the people involved, and to the implications to both the U.S. film industry and to our country of this situation.

"We cannot see on what basis Mr. Kramer finds it 'repensible' for us to tell the people what appears in congressional documents concerning Nedrick Young, whom Mr. Kramer has hired and whose product he will offer to the public. In 1953 Mr. Young was asked by a congressional committee if he were a member of the Communist party. He answered by assailing the committee and refusing to answer the question. The American Legion will publish the testimony. The public will have the information through the Legion if through no other medium of public information."

The American Legion and other patriotic organizations desire to know whether the motion picture industry repudiates the Waldorf Declaration of 1947 and if not, what they intend to do about those whose actions indicate repudiation. Some of the motion picture people feel that the atmosphere has changed and that Communists should be permitted to find work in the motion picture industry.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN Advice On Acne

Daughter Is In Actual Depression Because Of Pimples

"Isn't there anything that will help acne?" asks Mrs. L. V. C., of Miami, Florida. "Our daughter is going into an actual depression because of her pimples. I know cancer, heart disease and all the rest are far more important. But aren't some doctors trying to find a cure for acne?"

ANSWER: I know what you are going through—watching your child in anguish and able to do only just so much and no more. I went through an acne siege myself (more than a few years ago) and I still remember vividly how distressing it was.

No, Mrs. L.V.C., doctors haven't given up; they are still trying to find a cure. Unfortunately, we haven't come up with the specific treatment. However, here is just one more for your doctor to consider.

Dr. S. William Levy, an investigator at the University of California Medical School, has had some good results with a drug called sulfadimethoxine. He gave one pill a day (0.5 gm) to 44 patients who suffered from acne. A d a r i b o n (commercial name) controlled or cleared the acne condition in 80 per cent of them. Some investigators at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School have also found it to be effective.

SWELLING OF FEET

"Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I know that standing on one's feet for hours may cause them to swell. What I am interested in knowing is this: What are some medical causes? Mr. O.T."

ANSWER: Kidney or heart trouble, pregnancy, cirrhosis of the liver, nephrosis, varicose veins, myxoedema, neuritis, abdominal tumor, pericardial aneurysm — and others.

If you have swelling of the feet that is persistent, the important thing is not even to attempt to make the diagnosis yourself. Don't guess it is due to standing; on the other hand, don't go labeling yourself with all sorts of serious conditions unnecessarily. Diagnosis is tough enough on your doctor. Amateurs often rush in where doctors fear to tread.

"I am a moderate smoker — usually not more than a half-dozen cigarettes and couple of cigars a day. When I pick up my pipe for a day's smoking, I usually dispense with cigars and cigarettes — and others.

"Today an acquaintance saw me light up. 'Some of you fellows surprise me,' he said. 'How can you smoke in the face of all the evidence that tobacco is a poison?'"

In effect, this is what I said to him: When a youngster comes to me I tell him that smoking is a vicious and perhaps dangerous habit. I tell the same to his father and mother. But that's really as far as I can go. I outline the potentialities of lung cancer and heart disease.

When they ask: "Has it been definitely proved that smoking is harmful?" I say: "Yes, in some cases. My opinion is that the following patients are definitely harming themselves by smoking: ulcer patients; coronary patients; those with chronic bronchitis; asthma or emphysema; thromboangiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease). Also those who have sinus trouble and a hacking cough not due to organic disease."

As for tobacco actually causing lung cancer and coronary artery disease — the trail is hot, but I don't think all physicians are certain of the actual culprit. When I have an answer that satisfies me, I will be the first to throw my pipes, cigarettes and cigars into the ashcan. Until then I will continue to take my chances — but also keep warning people about tobacco's dangerous potentialities.

No All-True History

NO HISTORY is written that... In all respects is true... And writers who would tell the truth... Are relatively few... And even they accomplish not... The goal they have in mind... Because of being misinformed... Or facts they cannot find... And then there are the ones who slant... The 'facts' that they declare... According to their viewpoint or... Because they do not care... Not all of every history... Is fictional today... But much of it is usually... Distorted in some way... And that is why in later years... Those contradictions rise... Of authors being ignorant... Or telling downright lies.

Bulls Are Brave

Investors, Big And Little Buy Despite Price Drops

In November 1959, when the stock market average was far above today's levels and was surging toward the highest peaks in history, the biggest brokerage house in the world conducted the largest survey ever made of stockholders actively investing in the market and asked them, among other pertinent questions, what their investment plans were for the next six months.

An overwhelming percentage replied that they intended only to buy stocks and only a pittance few said they intended only to sell.

Since that survey was made, the stock market has gone into a nosedive. The break in the familiar Dow-Jones average of industrial stocks in January and early February alone was almost 80 points.

Against that background, no one could have blamed the investors who in November said they planned to buy stocks for changing their minds in the past six weeks.

But did they change their minds? No. They kept buying stocks heavily on balance in January, and they've kept buying right up to today.

And this goes for big investors who trade in round lots (blocks of 100 shares each) and small investors who trade in odd lots (blocks of less than 100 shares each). It goes for professionals and amateurs.

The sudden doubts about the power of the current business upswing that hit industrialists in mid-January haven't perturbed them. The rapidity of the stock price slump hasn't repelled them. Actually, even among those who last fall thought business and the market would decline, 65-70 per cent still planned to buy stocks — and apparently have been or are now doing so.

Today, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (assets, a record $446 million, net income before taxes a record $35 million) released along with its annual report its second nationwide survey of its customers. This one firm accounts for over 13 per cent of the round lot and over 21 per cent of the odd lot trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange; a full 40 per cent of 143,000 of the customers to whom it sent its questionnaire responded. There is no doubt that the basic attitudes and aims of the Merrill Lynch customer "reflect," as the firm puts it, "those of the actively investing public."

What, then, did the nation's investors in November think business would do in the next six months? Almost 60 per cent expected it to get better, most of the rest expected it to stay about the same, only 5 per cent expected business to get worse.

What about the stock market's trend for the six months? The percentages were about the same except that 10 per cent looked for a market decline. That's an intriguing twist — twice as many thought the market would decline as expected business to decline.

What did they plan to do in the market in the six months? Of the 143,000 surveyed, 62,200 planned to buy only, 63,400 planned to buy and sell, 17,600 planned neither to buy nor sell and only 9,800 planned to sell only.

What actually have they done? A check with Merrill Lynch's head office disclosed that their customers bought on balance 871,205 shares during January's price plunge and another 396,300 shares through Feb. 11. As one of Merrill Lynch's officers said with obvious astonishment, "They have done what they said they would do."

Admittedly, a startling total of today's active investors are neophytes; almost 50 per cent have bought their first stock since 1950. Admittedly, neophytes tend to be more optimistic than long-time pros.

Nevertheless, when Merrill Lynch made its first investor survey in the fall of 1957 — a time of deepening recession and the shock of the first Soviet Sputnik — its customers revealed themselves generally optimistic. "Time proved them right."

Hopefully, time also will prove this group right.

JOHN HARRIS

Texas Embassy

Letter Received By Newest

Lone Star State Representative

Foreign Affair — The letter was addressed to "The Embassy of Texas, Washington, D. C." Inexplicably, it wound up in the Capitol Hill mailbox of Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., the state's newest member. Scrawled apparently by a first grader, the letter requested information on Texas' capital, industries, its first settlement, and its state flower (Bluebonnet), plus pictures. It bore a South Carolina postmark. Ambassador Casey was reported gathering the information to send to South Carolina, possibly by diplomatic pouch.

Dress Blues — Rep. Frank Kowalski, D-Conn., drew attention to a laugh at his own expense. He is leading a fight against use of GIs as servants for officers. Kowalski also wants unification of the three services, right down to their uniforms. This evoked the wrath of the semi-official Army Times. The publication front-paged the following, and Kowalski placed it in the Congressional Record for posterity:

We'd go for that drastic idea. To balance the budget for Ike. But think of the possible savings if civilians all dressed alike. So we'll back Kowalski's proposal.

And work for it every chance. When women all wear bikinis. And gentlemen wear short pants.

Memories — It brought back old times for Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex. Teague was in Dallas when he saw a newspaper story about postal workers complaining they faced dismissal if they didn't do homework for which they received no pay. Teague, a former post office clerk, immediately pledged his support for their fight for compensation. Seems postal clerks must learn by rote — on their own time — complex city mail schedules equivalent to half a big-city telephone directory. They get examined on this, and if they fail to earn a 97 per cent grade, they face getting fired. A bill has been introduced to get them some cash compensation for hours spent at home burning midnight oil. Post office department reaction: "No comment."

Farm Problem (Cont'd.) — Uncle Sam is suing the state of Ohio for $23,000. The suit says Ohio is growing too much wheat on farms operated by state mental and penal institutions. Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, cried "Shameful!" He said the state is being penalized for raising grain which the federal government refines and then offers free of charge as a surplus commodity. Vanik added: "This litigation is perhaps the first instance in the history of the United States in which a sovereign state is being sued for refusing a Federal gift."

He Went Thataway — Cartoonists and columnists are having field days with Senator Lyndon Johnson's apparent attempts to identify himself as a Westerner as well as a Southerner. The Texas senator, acutely aware of Northern and Western coolness to southern Democratic conservatism, was described here as "The Fastest Gun in the South." And a leading cartoonist drew Johnson, and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, his backer in the race for the presidential nomination, in exaggerated western garb. Johnson, hand outstretched, is saying to a puzzled citizen: "We all are from the Deep West, suh!"

Top Secret — Usually smooth Senate minority leader Everett Dirksen rose to the floor with his feathers ruffled. He was disturbed at a newspaper account of what had been considered secret congressional testimony by Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency. The account said its information came from an indisputable source, Dirksen darkly demanded that the senate probe a possible security leak, then inserted the newspaper story in the Congressional Record.

Daily Devotional

I exhort... that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings and all in authority... 1 Tim. 2:1,2.

How often do we pray for our leaders in church and state and all who are in authority throughout the world? We hear such prayers from our pulpits nearly every Sunday, but it is also the obligation of all Christians so to pray. Leadership is the key to solving most of our problems and if the top leaders and executives of the world can be Christianized, there will then be little fear of war, and peace, through the love of God, can reign supreme.

O God, help us to pray for all people, but especially for those in high and important positions of trust. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

General Maxwell Taylor's Report

The Schism In JSC Comes Out In Public

CHAPTER 6
By GEN. MAXWELL D. TAYLOR, ret.

As the policy review proceeded in the spring of 1958, it was apparent there would be a major split within the JSC. The Army, supported this time by the Navy and Marine Corps, held that former statements of basic military policy were inadequate in an era of mutual deterrence and encouraged an undue reliance upon nuclear weapons, particularly upon large yield weapons, to the impairment of the conventional capabilities of all services.

The Air Force would have no part of such thinking. Some of its spokesmen went so far as to accuse advocates of the new philosophy of betraying the national interest. Such talk, they felt, would inspire doubt as to whether the U. S. was prepared to use the weapons in its nuclear arsenal. For them, the growth of the Soviet nuclear power changed nothing other than to accentuate the need for more atomic weapons and delivery vehicles to stay safely ahead of the Russians.

The split in the armed services was carried first to the Secretary of Defense and then to the National Security Council. Acting as the spokesman for the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps before the Council, I expressed our common feeling. There had been sufficient evidence of the deterioration of our international power position in relation to that of the Soviet bloc to convince us that a thorough reappraisal of our military strategy was essential.

The overall problem, as I saw it, was to readjust our strategy to a period of mutual deterrence. It could be assumed that the United States and the USSR would be increasingly restrained from deliberately initiating a general nuclear war. In such a situation, there was no place for a policy of massive nuclear retaliation except as a deterrent to total nuclear war or as a reprisal if one began. It was doubtful whether either the Soviets or our allies believed we would use our retaliatory power for anything other than to preserve our own existence.

A NEW IDEA
I stated our atomic deterrent forces would be the shield under which we must live from day to day with the Soviet threat. This shield would provide us protection, but not a means of maneuver. It was rather to the so-called limited war forces that we henceforth must look for the active elements of our military strategy.

The point that limited war forces had the active role to play in future military operations, and the atomic retaliatory forces a passive role was new. Initially, the concept had been that ground forces in Europe and the Far East were the shield behind which the U. S. could deliver the devastating blows of its atomic sword. Now the role was being reversed.

After I had finished my statement, General Twining and White presented the Air Force point of view, which was to remain unchanged the status quo of our military strategy. To my disappointment Secretary Dulles did not provide the strong support for a new strategy which I had hoped. The meeting broke up without a decision being announced but in reality our cause was lost for the time being. Soon after, Secretary McElroy issued a memorandum that there had been no changes to warrant any significant revision in the "Basic National Security Policy."

Under these discouraging prospects for the proponents of change in national strategy, the formulation of the 1960 budget began in midsummer of 1959. In effect, the guidance was directed at maintaining approximately the same overall dollar ceiling for the defense budget as in 1959 and at retaining the same percentage allocations. From fiscal year 1955 these had been about 46 per cent for the Air Force, about 28 per cent for the Navy and Marine Corps, and some 23 per cent for the Army, with the remainder of the budget going to the Department of Defense itself. In the vital area of funds for the purchase of new equipment the Air Force had consistently received some 60 per cent of the available resources, the Navy and Marine Corps about 30 per cent and the Army about 10 per cent.

RED GUNS CHANGE NOTHING
As Red Chinese guns bombarded the islands in the Taiwan strait, the budget debate carried forward. The renewed evidence of Communist readiness to resort to limited war measures had no effect on the issue. In the end, the budget went to the National Security Council without essential change.

All the services, particularly the Air Force and Navy, had embarked upon expensive programs for the production of heavy weapons such as the Atlas and Titan intercontinental ballistic missiles, the Thor and Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missiles, the Polaris submarine missile system, and the Bomarc surface-to-air missile. The early warning program was creating expenses beyond those anticipated. The Army also had the Nike-Zeus antiballistic missile. To stay within the dollar limits of previous budgets required the elimination or the cutback of many of these programs. In the end the IRBM and the Nike-Zeus programs bore the most significant reductions.

The decision to hold back the Nike-Zeus program was particularly regrettable. This imposed a delay of at least one additional year on this unique weapon so essential to deterrence of atomic attack and to national survival if deterrence fails.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff as a body took no part in the formulation of the 1960 budget — nor had they in previous years. This fact has often surprised Congress.

But the secretary of defense has never given the chiefs as a body a clearly defined role in budget-making. This results in part from honest doubt as to the extent to which the chiefs should be drawn into fiscal matters, in part from a feeling they would ask for the moon.

In the usual way, each service produced its budget in isolation from the others. Although many earnest discussions took place between the secretary of defense, the department secretaries, and their chiefs of staff, at no time to my knowledge were the three service budgets put side by side and an appraisal made of the fighting capabilities of the aggregate military forces supported by the budget. It is not an exaggeration to say that nobody knows what we are actually buying with any specific budget.

As the budget neared its conclusion, Secretary McElroy apparently felt the need for some endorsement by the Joint Chiefs of Staff before sending it to Congress. After much discussion, we finally agreed on the following statement:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff consider that the FY 1960 proposed expenditure figure of $10,945,000,000 is adequate to provide for the essential programs necessary for the defense of the nation for the period under consideration. They find no serious gaps in the key elements of the budget in its present form, but all have reservations with respect to the funding of some segments of their respective service programs."

Although this was rather tepid support, the secretary of defense elected to present it to Congress. This action boomeranged.

Senator Johnson's Preparedness Subcommittee pounced upon the memorandum and soon called us to express our views of the budget publicly under oath and later to file written statements. Despite a proper desire to avoid public criticism of our civilian supervisors, our testimony soon showed what we really thought of the budget. Noting the statement that the overall sum was sufficient but that our individual budgets were far below what was required, one senator dryly remarked that he didn't see how three insufficiencies could add up to a sufficiency.

The testimony revealed for the first time the extent of the schism within the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the division in their views on massive retaliation and related matters of strategy. This revelation profoundly disturbed many members of Congress as well as thoughtful citizens generally.

USED IN SOME LIPSTICK

Coal Tar Color Termed Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government pharmacologist Friday described as very dangerous for any human consumption a coal tar color used in some lipsticks.

Dr. O. Garth Fitzhugh said the color, known as orange 17, caused marked blood changes in laboratory rats. He said he had not seen similar changes in more than three other substances among more than 1,000 he has tested in his 20 years with the Food and Drug Administration.

Dr. Fitzhugh, who was in charge of lipstick color tests conducted by FDA, has been the major FDA expert witness since public hearings on 14 coal tar colors used in lipsticks began three days ago. The hearings recessed at noon until Tuesday.

Earlier, the industry called on a German biochemist, who testified he had done experiments on some "kissproof" lipsticks. He said his tests indicated their color dye did not penetrate down into the living tissue of the lips.

The same would probably be true for other lipstick colors, said Dr. Otto K. Jacob, research director of Kelmar Laboratories, Wiesbaden, Germany. All of his testimony was stricken from the record as irrelevant but permitted to be appended as "an offer of truth."

FDA has banned use of 14 coal tar colors, used in most lipsticks, on the ground they caused injury, and in some cases death, to laboratory rats. The ban has been held up pending outcome of the current hearings.

The FDA says that under the law the ban is mandatory if any harm befalls laboratory animals fed the dye in test conditions. But Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming has asked Congress to write a new law to permit FDA to set safe limits or tolerances for use of the colors as it now does for food additives.

The issue of tolerances was brought up at Friday's session by John H. Pickering, attorney for the Certified Color Industry Committee, representing makers of colors that go into food, drugs and cosmetics.

Under questioning, he drew from Dr. Fitzhugh the definition that a toxic substance is one that produces injury or abnormal effect in an experimental animal; that poisons fall in this class; and that nine lipstick colors he tested are "toxic substances."

Fitzhugh confirmed that four substances used as preservatives in certain fats and oils are known to be toxic but are listed by FDA as harmless when used within certain limitations, or safe tolerances.

A recognized harmful or toxic subject, Fitzhugh said, could be considered safe under certain conditions of use, and when the amount used is limited.

In its tests of lipstick colors, Fitzhugh said, FDA did not take into consideration how they would be used.

INCOME RETURNS

Army Pulls Boner On Tax Details

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has goofed on withholding tax data sent to some soldiers to help them prepare their 1959 income tax returns. It was disclosed Friday.

Army officials do not know how widespread the errors are, but they have issued a worldwide warning to troop commanders to look into the situation and make any needed corrections.

The errors appeared in Treasury Department W-2 forms, the withholding tax statements which show total wages, and the amount of federal income taxes and social security taxes withheld.

So far mistakes have been discovered in forms sent to troops at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground. The Army blamed the mistakes on clerks who prepared the forms.

Some forms were understood to have shown more tax withheld than actually was deducted from monthly pay checks to troops. In some cases, withholding and social security taxes were transposed.

"The errors are in transcribing tax information from individual monthly tax vouchers to the tax withholding record, which is maintained in every soldier's financial file and from which the Treasury Department form W-2 is prepared," the Army said.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

AT LITTLE ROCK

Negroes Charged In Dynamiting

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The Pulaski County prosecutor charged two Negroes Friday with dynamiting the home of Carlotta Walls, 16, one of the Negro students involved in a three-year campaign to integrate Central High School.

The charging of the two Negroes—Herbert Odell Monts, 17, a student at Horace Mann (Negro) High School, and Maceo Antonio Binns Jr., 31, a chauffeur and handyman—indicated that police discounted a segregationist motive.

The blast blew a hole in the brick side of the Walls' home but hurt no one.

County Prosecutor J. Frank Holt declined, however, to say what he thinks the motive is and Detective Chief A. M. Haynie said his investigation of the dynamiting is continuing.

Holt said he has not checked a report that the girl rejected Monts as a suitor.

"All the parties are acquainted," he said. "They are not strangers."

"We don't have any evidence that they wanted to injure anyone."

Mrs. L. C. Bates, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said she doesn't know what evidence Holt has against Monts and Binns, but their being charged sounds "awfully ridiculous."

They were charged with the Feb. 9 dynamiting under an old law that prohibits the malicious destruction of property with explosives.

Conviction carries a three- to five-year prison sentence or a $100-$500 fine, or both.

The girl was one of nine Negroes who attended Central during the 1957-1958 term under protection of federal troops. Gov. Orval E. Faubus kept Central and three other Little Rock high schools closed during the 1958-1959 term.

She and four other Negroes are attending Central now under peaceful conditions and without protection.

Police questioned eight or 10 other Negroes, including Carlotta Walls, father of Carlotta, but none except Monts and Binns was charged or held. Binns has known the Walls family for years.

Holt charged Monts and Binns in Municipal Court. Municipal Judge Quinn Glover asked whether

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Did the apostle Paul ever meet Jesus before his death? Paul must have been a contemporary of Christ, and I have often wondered why they never met.

ANSWER: It has never been established exactly where Saul was during Jesus' ministry in Palestine. The most reasonable explanation is that he was back in Tarsus in the university there. Saul grew up in Tarsus which was the chief city of Cilicia. Tarsus was a gathering place for intellectuals, and the site of the famous school of philosophy. Later, we know that he went to Jerusalem and studied under Gamaliel, the most learned Hebrew scholar of his day.

Since Tarsus was the university center of that area, it would be natural for Saul to go back there and take post-graduate work after his teaching under Gamaliel.

Saul was unwittingly preparing himself to be the first and greatest exponent of Christianity, and his mastering the philosophies stood him in good stead after his conversion on the Damascus Road. Although there is doubt that Saul ever met Christ in the flesh, he had an encounter with Him which changed not only the entire course of his life, but the course of history itself. His life, his name, and his destiny underwent a complete change. Of that experience he wrote: "Old things have passed away, and behold all things have become new." It is much more important that we meet Jesus in spiritual experience than that we should have seen Him in the flesh.

Reference Works Are Contributed To New Library

Thanks to the Anna Meyer Charities Board, $2,500 worth of reference works will be included in the new Anna Meyer Branch Library on Jackson street.

In addition, the Board plans to supplement the construction fund for the new building.

The branch library will be built on the site of the old Ouachita Parish Public Library at the corner of Jackson and Calypso streets. This site, originally donated by Mrs. Meyer, was used by the library from 1920 until last summer, when it was turned over to the parish police jury so that a new branch could be built.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Jack Paar's fans can relax: he'll be back. He never meant to quit NBC, and the executives at the network knew it, or they wouldn't have broadcast his emotional—but carefully taped—"farewell" scene when they could have kept it off the air and held their new contract conferences in private. The whole routine was an elaborately choreographed as an Agnes DeMille ballet; Paar felt the need of a great surge of audience sympathy to distract from the criticism he'd been getting, and NBC realized the stunt would cause front page headlines from coast to coast, so why not play the game with straight faces?

It didn't hurt anybody, and gave the show and its star publicity that couldn't be bought. Even the guest performers were in on the gag, obviously; people like Shelley Berman and Orson Bean even press agents, and since the program was not a libel "live," but canned before it was aired, they naturally would have gone to their public relations representatives and said, "Guess what? I have a big scoop for you to give one of the TV columnists. Jack Paar is quitting NBC." That's what they would have said if they believed it, or if they hadn't been sworn to keep the "gag" a secret.

The rest of the plot is predictable. Paar, after a cooling off period, will confide to the press that he had been suffering from overwork, exhaustion, tension or you - name - it, so he blew his top - but he's only human, and doesn't everyone flip once in a while, even people who can't train their tears to spout on cue in front of a nationwide audience? And NBC will issue a statement saying they quite understand, the boy has been working hard, and they're delighted to announce that an amicable agreement has been reached with their invaluable property. Kisses all-round.

Yul Brynner didn't waste any time in New York when he flew from London to start his new movie in Cuernavaca. At Idlewild he caught a plane for Washington, where he conferred with UN officials about his TV show on the subject of refugees, then he took off for Mexico. His fiancée, Doris Kleiner, is reportedly staying with friends in Manhattan, but it's likely she'll show up South of the Border while Yul's filming there.

Saul Brown, septuagenarian father-in-law of Eva Gabor, has a romantic secret: beautiful young Helen Downey, former wife of Morton Jr., one of the city's most important radio stations has hired private eyes to watch its disc jockeys, and the fellows are so unnerved by the atmosphere of suspicion they all but explode at the approach of a song pluggers or music publisher. They're terrified of a "plant" - one of America's astronauts will get his first trip into space this year.

Annie Ross of the Lambert-Hendricks-Ross singing team is in flower pneumonia, attended by a fear it will be at least six weeks before she's fully recovered. Emily Post horror note: Gamble Benedict's European beau, Andre Ding-dong, combs his hair right at the table in the most fashionable restaurants... Gina Lollobrigida's decision to sue two Italian priests for libel didn't surprise any of her close chums. She's always suing someone - and quite often she wins.

The newspaper accounts of Helen O'Connell's "victory" over estranged husband Tom Chamales caused plenty of cynical comment from those who know the writer. Helen was awarded $300 a month as temporary alimony and child support - a respectable enough figure if she can collect it. But Helen might consult Tom's former wife for the low-down on how difficult it is to pry $$$ out of him.

Hedy Lamarr's chums fear she'll have a nervous breakdown if she doesn't take a long rest. Among the casualties when France Nuyen parted from the cast of the movie "Suzie Wong" was a cover story in Cosmopolitan. Jon Whitcomb was going to do her portrait... An interesting Broadway rumor has the Latin Quarter shopping for a new site because the building in which it's now located is scheduled to be razed in the not too distant future to make way for a much taller edifice.

Charlie Byrd, the fabulous classical and jazz guitarist (Offbeat Records) has received a flattering invitation. Segovia wants him as a house guest in Spain this summer. Jo Stafford rushed back to Hollywood after the Pat Boone show because her young son was ill. The Waldorf management is understandably miffed at Dorothy Dandridge. When she was unable to do the 9:30 show the other night, she waited until 9:25 to let them know they'd need a replacement.

Broadway experts are predicting quick stardom for Robert Drivas, the young actor who played in the Florida production of "Sweet Bird of Youth" and is now rehearsing with the Lloyd Nolan show, "One More River". A startling new line of cosmetics is due late in March. Get ready, fellows - it includes blue and green makeup base for the girls, with powder and everything else to go with the astonishing complexion colors. United Artists and Ziv, the major TV syndicate, are close to signing a big deal.

How To Keep Well
By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

RABIES IS CONTROLLABLE
Rabies can be eliminated in the United States by enforcing strict preventive measures. It worked in England, so why not here? The disease was common in the British Isles until the latter part of the 19th century when laws were passed making it mandatory to license and muzzle all dogs and to quarantine incoming animals for 6 months' observation. All unlicensed strays were captured and destroyed humanely.

The disease was eradicated by these simple measures. The same results were obtained in Ireland, Denmark, Norway, Hawaii, and Australia. The use of a preventive vaccine on pets is advocated also.

PEPTIC ULCER
T. M. O. WRITES: Would X-ray show whether ulcer is in the stomach or the duodenum?

HEART DEFECTS
J. P. writes: Does a heart murmur mean a hole in the heart?

REPLY
A murmur is a swishing or blowing sound created by the heart as it beats and relaxes. It may stem from a hole in the partition between the two auricles or ventricles. These sounds are created also by heart valves that do not close on open property. Occasionally an innocent murmur develops when the heart rubs against the lungs.

Swedish, Canadian Entries Win Olympic Gold Medals

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Sixteen Jernberg, Sweden's ski racing king, and a pair of dazzling Canadian figure skaters won the first gold medals of the eighth Winter Olympics Friday but it was the United States' fighting ice hockey team which provided the big surprise.

The Americans, led by John Mayasick of Eveleth, Minn., came storming back with four goals in the final period to beat favored Czechoslovakia 7-5 in the first game of the round robin hockey tournament.

The United States also won its first medal—a bronze—in the figure skating pairs competition, won by the brilliant Canadian team of Barbara Wagner and Dudley Richards of Boston finished third in this event, behind the Canadian and the European champions, Marika Kilius and Hans Baunler of Germany.

The ice hockey victory was a big one for Uncle Sam's plucky forces. The Czechs were one of the three favored teams—rating with Russia and Canada as pre-tournament favorites for the title. Jernberg, a wiry, 31-year-old salesman, captured the grueling were doomed to financial failure even if they achieve artistic success.

Scarcely 1,000 saw the cross-country race, an event that draws 50,000 in Europe. Little more than 2,000 were in Blyth Arena for the figure skating.

Finishing back of Jernberg in the ski race was Rolf Ramberg, a 25-year-old Swedish lumberjack who took the silver medal in the time of 1:51:16.9. Nikolai Anikin of Russia was third in 1:52:22.2.

Mack Miller of Crested Butte, Colo., did best for the United States with 27th place in 2:03:05.4. Leo Massa of Matwan, N.J., was 42nd in 2:18:47. And Joseph Wilson of Lake Placid, N.Y., 43rd in 2:22:16. Sven Johanson of Alaska found the race too grueling and dropped out.

Jernberg, a wiry 160 pounds, showed no sign of exhaustion as he dashed uphill and downhill over the hard-packed course weaving around McKinney Creek, 17 miles from the Squaw Valley headquarters.

As he crossed the finish line, the Swedish champion was greeted by Prince Bertel of Sweden who exclaimed, "That was beautiful."

The Canadian pairs team skated brilliantly. They performed to a potpourri of tango, ballad and waltz music and dazzled the gallery with their coordination and remarkable changes of pace.

Miss Wagner, who is 21, and Paul, who is 22, are natives of Toronto and have been skating together for eight years. Paul, a 6-footer, towers over his blonde, 107-pound partner who stands 5-11.

There was a tense moment after they started their competition when the music failed.

"This actually turned out to be a big help," said Miss Wagner. "It relieved some of the pressure and that extra practice we got gave us both a big lift."

Although only individual championships are counted in the Olympics, the unofficial score kept on a basis of 10 points for first, with 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, for the other places. Showed Sweden in front at the end of the first day with 17 points, followed by Canada 13, Russia 8, Germany 7, United States 4, Finland 1.

Russia, with great strength in both men's and women's speed skating, is expected to dominate these games.

A blanket of glistening white snow—10 inches fell Thursday to complicate the opening ceremonies—lay on this 6,000-foot high valley and more fine weather is forecast for the weekend.

Bossier Tops Rebels By 69-50 Count

BOSSIER CITY, La. (Special)—Bossier's tall and talented casters clinched a tie for first place in the district 1-AAA championship race by downing West Monroe, 69-50, here Friday night.

The win boosted the Bearkat's record to 33-4 and pushed their league-leading mark to 7-1. West Monroe dropped its 6th league decision against 2 victories and is 5-20 for the year.

Bossier can wrap up the title by beating Bastrop here tonight. Holding the Rebels to eight points in the initial period, Bossier grabbed a 34-10 margin early in the second quarter and began substituting freely. The Rebs cut the lead to 13 points midway of the third stanza but the Bossier starters returned to action and sewed up the game.

Tommy Rachel was high for the winners with 17 points. Oliver Schulz netted 16 points and Roy Scroggins followed with 14 for West Monroe.

Bossier's Cubbs copped the "B" contest, 65-39, as Charles Sanders hit 19 points. Charley Taylor with 13 and Billy Doerner with 11 led the junior Rebels.

Duck Stamp Drive Begun

WASHINGTON (AP)—A national campaign to get conservation-minded persons to buy 1959-60 duck stamps to help the cause of waterfowl conservation was announced Friday.

The stamps are no longer valid as hunting permits for taking migratory waterfowl because the seasons closed in January. But each purchaser of a new stamp will receive a certificate signed by Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton.

The purpose of the drive is to offset the loss of revenue from regular duck stamp sales, which are down an estimated 25 percent.

The revenue from sale of the stamps at $3 each finances ac-

Rebel Sextet Scores Easy 39-21 Victory

Everyone who plays basketball likes to score a point or two once in a while. In girls' basketball the guards seldom have a chance—but they did last night.

The once-beaten West Monroe sextet built up a commanding lead after three quarters of play, then switched the guards to forwards in thoroughly trouncing Mangham, 39-21.

Glenda Goyne, Jke Guraedy and Judy Hicks, the Rebel girls' back court stars, all got a shot at the basket in the process and Miss Goyne came through with a point for her credit.

All-state Nancy Smith popped in 19 points to pace the win while Joyce Saxon netted 11 and Ann Chapman tossed in 8. Frances Johns was the top scorer for Mangham, hooping nine points.

After a scoreless first two minutes the West Monroe squad found the range and moved to an 11-5 advantage after one period and led 21-13 at the half. With the score 36-17 early in the fourth quarter Mrs. Lou Nell Russell pulled the shift and the Rebels coasted to victory.

The West Monroe "B" girls whipped Mangham, 33-17, in the opener to make a clean sweep of the night's action. Katherine Myers led the winners with 14 points and can Clinigan tallied 10 for Mangham.

Centenary was ahead at the Ron Woodward, Joe Daigle, Moreland and Ray Germany paced Tech's well-balanced attack. Woodward got 17 points, Moreland and Daigle 14 each and Germany 13.

Billy Eubanks led Centenary with 14 points and Ford King had 12. Jackie Crawford, Centenary's 6-9 pivotman who has been averaging 16.9 per game, was held to 3.

Aaron Gains Semifinals In Florida Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Bill Harvey of Greensboro, N.C., last year's medalist in the National Tournament of Golf Club Champions, Friday whipped the 1960 medalist, Sam Marsh of Paris Mountain, S.C., and moved into the semifinal round.

Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga.; Truman Connell of Jupiter, Fla., and John Eisinger of Washington, D.C. joined Harvey in the semifinals.

Harvey will meet Eisinger and Aaron will meet Connell in 36-hole matches Saturday and the winners will play for the title Sunday, also in a 36-hole match over the 6,545-yard Ponce de Leon Course.

None of the four survivors has ever won the tournament. Aaron and Connell are playing in it for the first time. Eisinger was a semifinalist last year and Harvey lost his first match after taking medal honors a year ago.

Harvey took an early lead over the steady Marsh in their quarter-final and was able to hold off a good finish by Marsh, winning 2 and 1.

Aaron, probably the best known of the semifinalists from his play last year on the Walker Cup team and going to the final of the National Amateur two years ago, was not at his best but managed to catch Kent Harrison of Elkhart, Ind., when he too was off form. Aaron took the match 2 and 1.

Par golf was good enough for Eisinger to register a 3 and 2 victory over Loe Nieldwicki of Wilmington, Del. Connell scored the most impressive victory of the quarter-finals, 5 and 4 over Skip Stigger, a University of Florida student from Henderson, Ky.

Antitrust Action Started Against Fight Promoters

NEW YORK (SP)—State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz started an antitrust action Friday against a number of individuals and firms connected with the last world heavyweight championship fight between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson.

Summonses and complaints were served on Floyd Patterson Enterprises, Ltd., Feature Sports, Inc. (formerly Rosenzohn Enterprises, Inc.), Constantine (Cus D'Amato, Harry Davidow, Charles Antonucci (alias Charley Black), Vincent J. Vellella and Anthony Salerno.

Named as co-conspirators but not defendants in the action are TelePromPter Corp., Irving B. Kahn, president and chairman of the board of TelePromPter; William P. Rosenzohn and former champion Floyd Patterson.

The feuders had a separate champion for years until Willie Pep beat Chalky Wright and Sal Bartolo.

Semifinals To Be Played Today In Ouachita Meet

Ouachita routed Swartz, 25-10. Lee won over Jena by forfeit, Jefferson swamped Sterlington, 41-7 and Bastrop edged West Monroe, 14-13, in girls' games.

High scoring boys were Lee's Garrett (18 points), Jena's Tarpely (6), Ouachita's Slusher (10), Logtown's Robinson (10), West Monroe's Robinson (7), Swartz's McCallum (10), Jefferson's Canal (10) and Sterlington's Ledger (3).

Semifinal play begins today at 11 o'clock and ends at 3:30. The night session will open with the consolation games at 6.

JANUARY TIED FOR 2ND

Dave Marr Tops In Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Dave Marr of Cedarhurst, N.Y., wasted a pair of shots by three-putting the last two greens but still held a one stroke lead at the end of 36 holes in the $20,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Marr has never won a tournament but he played steadier golf in a treacherous desert dust and windstorm than some of the game's biggest names for his 65-68-133. This was 7-under par for the 6,413-yard, par 70 El Rio Country Club course.

Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y., and Don January, Denver, Colo., a pair of 30-year-old comers, tied for second at 134.

Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., the first round leader, and Don Fairfield, Jacksonville, Ill., were two strokes off the pace with 135. The putting touch that carried Harney to a first round, 6-under-par 64 left him Friday and he had a 71.

Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif., the defending champ, was in a group of seven with 137.

Wind gusts of up to 30 miles per hour sent dust swirling, scores soaring and brought complaints from the field.

Marr is on his honeymoon. He and Susan Davis were married 11 days ago. Among the early finishers, he was disgusted as he headed for the clubhouse.

"You can't three-putt the last two greens like I did and stay in front," he said. "I played too fast. The one I missed on the 17th that gave me a bogey was only 18 inches. I needed a putt of less than 3 feet for a birdie on the 18th. I missed that too."

January is off to his best start since becoming a pro, finishing in the top 10 of four of the five tournaments he has entered this year.

Celtics Beat Pistons, Near NBA Record

DETROIT (AP)—Boston's Celtics moved to within one victory of tying the National Basketball Assn. record for victories in one season when they whipped the Detroit Pistons 136 - 16 Friday night.

The victory, Boston's seventh in a row, marked its 51st triumph of the season. The Celtics set the record of 52 last season.

Boston still has 11 games to play. The Pistons, who now have lost 15 in a row to Boston, never could threaten seriously. It was their fifth straight loss and the sixth in their last seven games.

The high-powered Celtics, closing in on the Eastern Division title, jumped to a 37-28 lead in the first quarter and held a 71-51 advantage at the half.

The Pistons threatened mildly late in the third period when they closed to within 5 points, but with Bill Sharman, Bill Russell, Frank Ramsey and Tom Heinsohn pumping in shots, the Celtics quickly reopened an 18-point gap and coasted home.

Heinsohn, with 32 points, led the way. Sharman made 24, Ramsey 21 and Bob Cousy 13.

Chuck Noble, Detroit guard, counted 29 points to top the Piston scorers.

Len Matthews Decisions Godih

NEW YORK (AP)—Len Matthews, 29-year-old Philadelphia lightweight prospect, scored a seventh-round knockout Friday night on the way to a split decision over Lahoari Godih, a game Algerian-born Parisian in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden.

Matthews weighed 135½, Godih 136½.

The small crowd, impressed by Godih's busy punching style and his ability to rally under heavy fire, booed the verdict and cheered the lone vote for Godih.

BASTROP FALLS, 35-16

BASTROP, La. (Special)—Fair Park's Indians held on to a slim chance for the district 1-AAA title by defeating Bastrop, 35-16, to close out their league season here last night.

Fair Park jumped into a 22-11 lead in the first period in rolling to its 7th 1-AAA victory in 10 games. Overall, the Indians are 19-10. Should league-leading Bossier lose its two final games, Fair Park would tie for the championship. Bossier beat West Monroe, 69-50, last night.

Bastrop is now 1-7 in the district.

Robert Watson got 17 points for Fair Park while Wes Kendall and Floyd Murry got the same for Bastrop. Charles Johnson got 11 and Donnie Carroll 8 for the winners while Ned Head contributed 10 points to the Bastrop attack.

Bastrop matched Fair Park in the second period, 11 to 11, and outscored the winners in the second half, 26 to 22, but couldn't overcome the first quarter deficit.

George Madison sank a long set shot from the side with two seconds to go to give Bastrop a 33-32 victory over St. Matthews in a "B" game. Files got 8 for Bastrop and Seliman 7. Sam Marsala got 13 for St. Matthews.

Bastrop is at Bossier tonight and hosts Mer Rouge boys and girls Tuesday.

LAFAYETTE, La. (Special) — The 1960 SLI Bulldog schedule was released yesterday, and it shows another fine list of contests for the Bulldogs this year.

Fox Signed For Healthy Pay Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — Second baseman Nellie Fox, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1958, Friday agreed to a 1960 Chicago White Sox contract calling for close to $50,000, a club record.

Fox was the highest salaried player on the Sox' pennant-winning club last season at an estimated $42,500.

He came to terms in a telephone conversation with his St. Thomas, Pa., home with Hank Greenberg, a Sox vice president. Earlier in the day, Greenberg also came to terms on the phone with third baseman Gene Freese, acquired last December from the Philadelphia Phils.

The Sox now have 28 of their 33 players under contract. Regulars still outside the fold are outfielder Minnie Minoso, back again from the Cleveland Indians and shortstop Luis Aparicio.

Fox, who will be starting his 11th White Sox season, hit .306 in 156 games last year, setting seven major league records and leading the team in five hitting departments.

Little Nell, an American League all-star performer for eight years, led all league second basemen in fielding with .988, committing only 10 errors in 827 chances.

Fox reportedly rejected one Sox contract before coming to terms, but Greenberg said, "We were never very far apart."

Freese, who led the Phils in homers last year with 23, came to the Sox Dec. 8 in a swap for rookie outfielder Johnny Callison.

LICENSE GRANTED

Way Cleared For Fight Promotion

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Cohn's new boxing group, Feature Sports, Inc., was granted a license to promote in New York State Friday. A club officials said the promoters hope to hold the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title rematch June 22 at New York's Polo Grounds.

Jack Fugazy, managing director of Feature Sports, said he would be disappointed if the rematch of last June's fight did not draw a million and a half dollars at the gate with tickets priced at $100 tops. He said the matter of home TV or closed circuit TV would be discussed later.

Although Fugazy said he hoped to hold the fight in New York, he left the door open in case of further complications. He said he had guarantees from two unidentified cities of $1,500,000 and $1,200,000 to stage the fight. He also spoke warmly of Joe Walker, New Jersey commissioner.

Fugazy said the only obstacle to holding the fight in New York was what he called "the attorney general's suitcase." Presumably he meant the antitrust proceedings announced Friday against several groups, including Feature Sports as the successor to Rosen, Sohn Enterprises, Inc., as a result of the first fight. The attorney general also claims back taxes are due the state on theater TV and movie rights.

"We think we can wind up our litigation with the attorney general's office," said Tom Bolan, a Cohn law associate who was licensed Friday as treasurer of Feature Sports.

Bolan said Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's adviser, and the new promoters were in complete agreement on all points.

He added Johansson was due here over the weekend for some television appearances.

"Feature Sports has the right (under the contract purchased from Rosensohn Enterprises for an estimated $250,000) to name the date and site. We have to notify Johansson by March 20 if we expect to run during the week of June 20," Bolan said.

"We expect to try to buy out Floyd Patterson Enterprises to eliminate any possible legal difficulties about the ancillary rights. We have a date to talk with Cus D'Amato, an officer of the Patterson Corporation, on Tuesday."

Actually the license to promote does not, in itself, amount to a permission to promote the Johansson-Patterson fight. Contracts of that sort must be approved by the New York State Athletic Commission. Bolan said he anticipated no problems.

Cohn, former counsel for the Senate investigating subcommittee headed by the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, testified at the hearing. So did Rosensohn and Dennis Slater, head of a New York investment firm who is president of Feature Sports.

Lake Providence To Host Castor

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) — Lake Providence (Special) will meet Castor in a state class "B" regional playoff here tonight at 7:30.

Lake Providence, which finished second to Pioneer in district 4-B, defeated Calhoun, 66-52, last Monday night in a bi-district playoff. The local team has won 15 games and lost four this season.

Admission for tonight's game will be 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

Penn State last went unbeaten in football in 1947 with nine victories and one tie.

son, he coached the Bulldogs to a 14 and 12 season, had the only team to defeat conference champions, La. Tech, defeated LSU 2-1 in a 13 inning charity benefit game for the Lafayette Youth Baseball Association, and won 7 of his last 9 games.

Wilson will be assisted by Coach Hershel Bobo, a retired minor league manager with the old New York Giant organization, and Donald "Cowboy" Landry, an aspiring student assistant who should develop into a great coach.

The outlook for the 1960 season is dimmed by the prospect of having only one experienced pitcher back in Lee Castagnos. Castagnos had a 5-2 overall record and was 4-1 in conference play.

One of his conference victories was over La. Tech. Other pitchers which are being counted on by Wilson include Richard Howell, Ellis Vincent, and Dage Lefcourt.

Steve Brackin, the teams leading hitter for the past two seasons, will be back in his position in the outfield. Brackin also sees plenty of service behind the plate.

The Bulldogs initial game of the season is on March 16 when they travel to Baton Rouge to meet the LSU Tigers in the first of seven road trips. North Illinois comes to Lafayette to open the home season for SLI on March 23 and 24.

The first conference game will be against McNeese at home on April 1. From then on, the Bulldogs will finish out the year against conference foes with the exception of two games with La. College, one against Norco, and a return engagement with LSU in Lafayette.

The Bulldogs close out the year on May 14 with a doubleheader against Northeast at home.

COLISEUM RELAYS

Northeast Thinclads Open Campaign At Montgomery

Northeast's brilliant thinclads, whose sparkling performances in sunshine and rain have made the school one of the top mall college track powers in the country, receive their first chance to make headlines indoors today in Montgomery. Alabama's Coliseum Relays against a rugged field that includes defending champion Florida State and SEC runnerup Georgia Tech.

Thirteen colleges and 50 high schools are entered in the fourth annual meet, held in Montgomery's State Coliseum. Besides Lew Hartog's Northeast Indians, Auburn and Florida State, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Alabama, Kentucky, Chattanooga, Mississippi State, Memphis State, Clemson, Mississippi College and Troy State are entered in the college division.

Northeast's Styron twins, aiming for Olympic berths, will be the meet's star attractions. Dave is favored to win the 60-yard dash and Don in the 60-yard high and low hurdles. The regular distance dashes and hurdles will not be run at the meet.

Dave is not expected to have much opposition in the dash with Auburn's Ronnie Burke. Alabama's Don Hargrove and Georgia's Bobby Townes considered his top threats. In the hurdles, Townes, teammate Jack Thompson, Corky Frosh of Auburn and Alabama's Wilbur Huffman are figured as Don's top competition.

Northeast distance ace Don "Buddy" Eiland will compete in the mile and two-mile along with highly-rated Rod Beck of Troy State and Billy Jennings of Alabama. Stocky Bill Frye of Northeast will run along with Eiland in the two-mile.

Fred Hobby will shoot for his 100th victory in 118 games here Saturday night, and unless all sorts of miracles take place Monday night, his richly applauded athletes should clinch their second straight SWAC title against Texas College Monday night.

Neither the Wildcats or Steers appear capable of injecting more than a little skepticism into Grambling's title plans.

The Tigers, ranked ninth nationally in the latest United Press International poll, secretly envision a post-season NAIA tournament berth and this by itself spells doom for the Texans.

SEC Stretch Drive May End Saturday

ATLANTA (UPI) — One of the tightest stretch drives in the history of Southeastern Conference basketball may reach a sudden climax Saturday night when the shuffling Auburn Tigers are host to the perennial champion Kentucky Wildcats and Georgia Tech visits arch-rival Georgia.

Auburn, Kentucky and Georgia Tech are tied for the lead at present, each with nine wins and two losses in SEC play. The winner of the Auburn - Kentucky game and Tech are expected to battle to the wire.

Tech's eight-ranked Yellow Jackets, who led the SEC race all the way until upset earlier this week at Tennessee, still remain in front for the NCAA tournament bid. Auburn is ineligible for the playoffs because of a long-standing ban for illegal football recruiting. If the Jackets and Kentucky share the title, Tech gets the bid thanks to two wins over the Wildcats.

Northeast's Gene Christen, Bill Koerner and Jerry Lowry will enter the freshman 60-yard dash and the three, plus Randall Walker, will also run in the freshman mile relay.

The meet gets under way with pole vault competition at 1 o'clock and ends with the mile relay at 9:50. Scoring will be on a 5-3-2-1 basis.

Wins At F.G.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — E. E. Wilson's Lead Stealer moved to the front early in the $2,500 feature at the Fair Grounds Friday and won easily by three lengths.

Lead Stealer finished the six furlongs in 1:12 with Dusty Admiral coming in second and Chris Moose taking the show spot.

NATIONAL AAU

5 World Records Expected To Fall

By JOHN GRIFFIN
NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Grelle is absent and John Thomas is ailing, but A.A.U. officials are optimistic that Saturday night's national A.A.U. indoor track championships at Madison Square Garden will produce five and perhaps six world record efforts.

Grelle, last year's NCAA king, withdrew from the mile because of an achilles tendon injury, leaving Phil Coleman of Chicago the hot favorite in that event off his 4:03 victory in Los Angeles.

Thomas, the Boston U. soph who has cleared seven feet in the high jump in seven straight meets, will be competing. But his coach says John is "tired" and not completely recovered from the flu and probably "won't do better than seven feet."

The high jump is one of the events honorary secretary Dan Ferris of the A.A.U. tabs as a likely world record producer.

Thomas has narrowly missed at several times and the feeling is he'll slide over it for a new indoor record one of these nights.

Other indoor record possibilities include:

The 60-yard high hurdles, where either Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan or Lee Calhoun of Gary, Ind.; may have to match the mark of 7.0 seconds to win; the three-mile run, where Aussie Al Lawrence of Houston U. tries for Bill Dellinger's mark of 13:37.0 that he missed by one second last month; mile walk, where Ferenc Sipos of Santa Clara Youth Village meets John Humcke of New York; shot put, where Parry O'Brien tries to break (officially this time) his own mark of 52 feet; 1 in.; and the weight throw, where Olympic champion Hal Connolly of Los Angeles has unofficially bettered the 6 ft.-1-inch record.

Jones, who scored a sprint-hurdles double in Philadelphia last week and repeated the next night in New York, will stick to the high timbers this time in an effort to beat Calhoun.

That leaves defending champion Paul Winder of Morgan State heading a crack field in the 60-yard dash.

Other individual favorites include Josh Culbreath of the Philadelphia Pioneers in the 600-yard run, Ed Moran of the New York A.C. and Tom Carroll of Yale in the 1,000, Irvin (Bo) Robertson of the Philadelphia Pioneers in the broadjump, and Bub Gutowski and Mel Schwarz of the Marines in the pole vault.

Natchitoches Contest For 'Pokes Today

LAKE CHARLES, La. (Special) — Only two road games stand between the McNeese State Cowboys and the conclusion of one of the weirdest basketball seasons on record.

The Cowboys, mired in fifth place in Gulf States Conference standings and faced with little hope of climbing, travel to Natchitoches for a Saturday night date with league - leading Northwestern State. The Pokes will wrap it all up on Feb. 23 in a game against Northeast Louisiana State at Monroe.

McNeese has outscored conference foes by a fairly wide margin in field goals but has won only two of eight tilts because of woefully inadequate free throw shooting. In fact, the Cowboys have scored more field goals than their opponent in each of those eight games.

Free throws count only one point, but the enemy's 150 to McNeese's 90 balances the Cowboys' 155-125 edge in field goals.

McNeese will carry a full season record of 12 victories against 13 defeats into Saturday's Northwestern game, postponed one week from Feb. 13 after a record snowfall made highway travel too treacherous to risk.

Northwestern ranks as the GSC's surprise club, boasting a 21-4 overall record and a 7-1 conference mark.

McNeese coach Ralph Ward will start Don Troutman, Al Nesmith, John Riddle, Pete Kazysaka and Danny Cupit against the Demons.

Troutman leads McNeese in scoring with a 14.6-point average per game. Nesmith follows with an 11.5 mark.

Northwestern will probably counter with Fruit Weldon, Phil Haley, Bill Stewart, Gene Wright and Larry Skinner. All Demons starters except Stewart, a rebound specialist, boast double figure scoring averages.

Rayville Looks For Sept. 16 Grid Contest

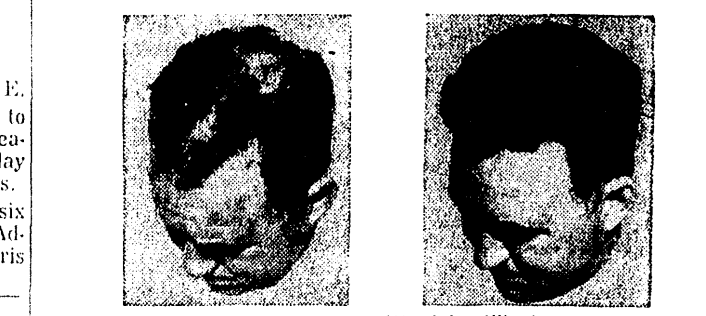

RAYVILLE, La. (Special) — Thirty-eight boys drew football equipment this week at Rayville High School with Coach Frazier Bailey still looking for a Sept. 16 opponent.

Bailey asked any team desiring to play Rayville to contact him at the high school.

Spring grid practice will continue here until March 4, then stop for baseball and track season. Football drills will resume after baseball and track for two or three more weeks.

Only eight lettermen are back from the 1959 team and only two starters, both linemen.

Suggs Cards Subpar 69 To Take Lead

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — Veteran Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., fired a 1-under-par 69 Friday and grabbed a two-stroke lead over defending champion Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., at the halfway point of the 72-hole $7,500 Lake Worth Women's Invitational.

Miss Suggs had her iron shots working well as she fired the first sub-par round for 141 total in play over the 5,654-yard par 70 Lake Worth Golf Course.

Trailing Miss Rawls in the starting field of 34 professionals and 17 amateurs was Joyce Ziske of Watford, Wis. She shot 72 for a 144 total.

Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., first day leader with 71, slipped to 79 Friday when she played with an injured eye.

Miss Hanson was hurt before play began when she romped a French poodle owned by Miss Ziske. On the first hole, she lost her ball. While hunting, she accidentally kicked it and lost a stroke. She wound up with a seven on the par four hole and never recovered.

Another casualty was Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill. She withdrew because of an ankle injury suffered Monday during a golf clinic at Sarasota. She had a 75 Thursday.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Better Return Money To Miss Fort Knox

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: You get many complaints on the mother-in-law but few people complain about father-in-law. How should I handle this?

My wife's father lives with us. He's never been wrong in his life and he's never lost an argument. He keeps telling me how to run my business although he went broke three different times. His favorite subject is the swell guys Marge went with before she married me and how rich they are today.

The old buzzard has money but he refuses to live alone because he says he loves our company. I try to be respectful for Marge's sake but sometimes I think the only way to please him is to drop dead. Any suggestions? — FED TED

Dear Ted: Don't drop dead to please your father-in-law. He'd miss you because there wouldn't be anyone around to needle.

Does Marge have any brothers or sisters who could relieve you of his company for a few months out of the year? It seems a shame that you alone should be favored with his pearls of wisdom.

Your best protection against a garrulous old man is a tin can and a sense of humor.

Dear Ann: I'm a boy 17 who is in a quandary. I work part-time after school and on Saturday. My mother is a widow who works to support two younger sisters. We aren't destitute, please understand, but there's not a lot of money to throw around.

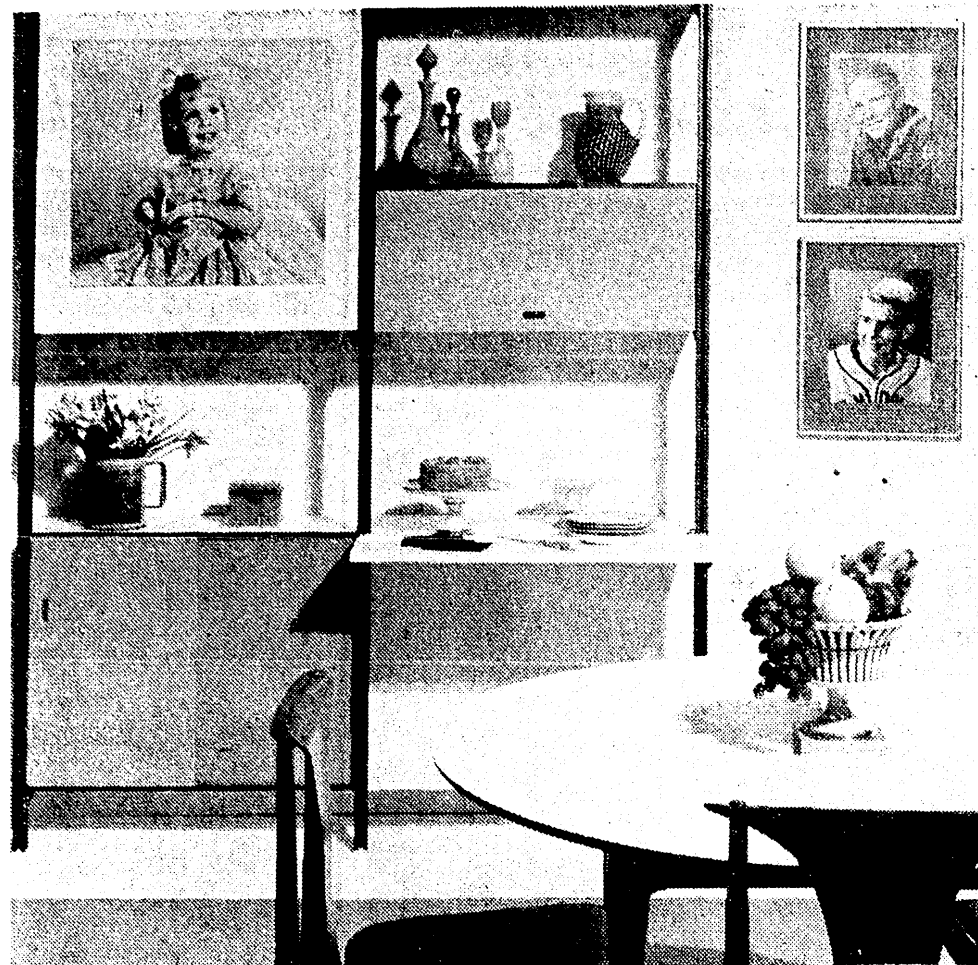

The trouble is with a certain girl who seems to like me very much. Her dad is a professional man and they live in a beautiful home. She phones me every night and gave me a wrist watch for Christmas which I begged her to take back but she refused.

Well, this girl asked me to a big social dance. I told her I couldn't go because I didn't have a tux. She said I should rent one. I told her I didn't want to spend the money. With that she slipped $14 into my hand.

I tried to give it back but she wouldn't hear of it. I feel like a heel. She wants me to go as a favor to her but I don't think it's right. Please answer immediately as I don't know what to do. — SUBSIDIZED

Dear Sub: You know what to do—and the sooner the better. Give the money back to Miss Fort Knox and tell her to invite someone who has the gear. If you play this kind of game, Buster, you'll have to take the name—and it's not pretty.

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter is nine and she doesn't know my

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Parents Must Protect Curious 2-Year-Old

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here is one of those inquisitive 2-year-old children who so far seems not to have learned much by experience. His mother writes: "Dear Mrs. Eldred: My son is 28 months old and has had his stomach pumped three times. The first time was at nine months when he got hold of some camphorated oil, drank it and got convulsions.

"The second time, when he was two, he drank some liniment my husband was using. The third time he drank some of the inhalant which came with a vaporizer which I had just set up and explained to him how it worked. So once more he was rushed to the hospital.

"He is a willful, stubborn child. If he is spanked for something he does it again more viciously. If we set him in a chair we can expect more animosity. I had to have a policeman bring him home when he ran away and I could not find him.

BETTER NOW

"He is better now that we have a neighbor boy of four years and he has more freedom to go about. "He is above average in intelligence, was saying words like al-kadada for alkalizer at seven months. He could crawl up and down stairs at eight months. I have always allowed him as much freedom as he could handle to investigate matters in the house—and at the same time watched every move he made.

"He isn't as bad about medicine as he was but he wants to use things the way we do, thus using his father's tungsicle on his hair the way I use an ointment

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—George Norman was arrested in connection with a $55 robbery. En route to the police station officers noted Norman was trying to talk about it, but just couldn't. Officers took a long look at Norman's swollen cheeks, forced his mouth open and found 12 one dollar bills. The money was seized as evidence.

HONORED WOMAN

Queen Elizabeth Personality Told

About 700 million persons call her Queen Elizabeth. Only one man, her husband Prince Philip, can call her Elizabeth, and then not in public.

She commands more armies than Alexander the Great, but she cannot order a single air rifle fired in anger.

She rules more territory than Napoleon, Hitler or Julius Caesar, but must ask her subjects for expense money.

Her formal title begins: "Her most excellent majesty Elizabeth the Second by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of her other realms and territories Queen, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith, sovereign of the British orders of knighthood..."

She nick-named herself "Lillabob."

She is the most cheered, photographed, talked-about, praised, sought-after, honored person in the Commonwealth.

She is one of the world's richest women. Her father gave her one shilling (4 cents) a week allowance as a girl. Only she can wear the crown jewels.

Britons pine for the day they're invited to Buckingham Palace. Once there, unwritten law forbids them to mention it.

Queen Elizabeth eats a big breakfast, but watches her weight. She likes rather old-fashioned hats, but loves jet flying. Her courtiers fight to cut down on royal travel, but she is the most-travelled monarch in British history.

She was educated by private tutors and helped personally by Winston Churchill and Dwight D. Eisenhower. She prefers pop music to opera and loves horse racing.

As a princess she stamped her foot in royal anger at a governess and snapped, "It's royalty speaking." She sent her son to school with other boys to stave off princely arrogance.

After Charles and Anne were born, everybody said she would have no more children. Today everybody says she may have at least one more to round off a family of four.

Industrial Requirements Cited Here

One of the foremost requirements in industry today is man's ability to communicate. A Northeast Louisiana State College chemistry professor told the Columbia High School Key Club Friday.

Dr. William K. Easley, chairman of the department of chemistry at Northeast, emphasized not only communication, but the ability to work with others and a sound technical background as needed ingredients for success.

PARALLELED

Easley paralleled median salaries for men and women chemists as $450 and $375 with a B.S. degree, in relation to $700 per month for both with a Ph.D. degree.

Northeast offers programs leading to bachelor degrees with majors in biology, chemistry, geology, pharmacy, physics, mathematics, medical technology and areas of business and music, Easley said.

Easley also mentioned to the students that Northeast will inaugurate a program leading to a B.S. degree in nursing this fall. In addition to these major fields, Northeast also offers professional programs in dentistry, engineering, medicine, veterinary medicine and forestry, Easley said.

Chessman's Reaction Is Outlined

EDITOR'S NOTE: Warden Fred Dickson of San Quentin Prison was the first person to inform Caryl Chessman of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's stay of execution. The following is his story as told to Associated Press staffer Harold V. Streeter.

By WARDEN FRED DICKSON
San Quentin Prison
SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — I happened to be down in the holding cell or death cell, as you might call it, visiting with the condemned man when the governor called.

That was right around midnight, and I had been there since a quarter to nine.

The phone rang. It's just outside the gas chamber. I was advised that the governor's secretary, Cecil Poole, was on the line. He was at the governor's mansion in Sacramento. He said the governor wanted to talk to me.

Then the governor got on the line and first he asked if he had awakened me. I told him no, that I was down at the cell of the condemned man.

He stated, "You can send him back upstairs. I am going to grant him a 60-day reprieve."

That was about the extent of what he said. Then I walked over and told Chessman the governor had granted him a 60-day reprieve.

He looked at me and said, "Warden, you wouldn't kid me, would you?"

"No, I wouldn't kid you about anything like that," I said.

Chessman said, "I know it." Then he said "Just a second, let me get myself together because actually I had resigned myself that this is it."

He said, "When you have the opportunity, tell the governor I am very grateful."

Then I called the lieutenant and he had Chessman taken back upstairs.

That's about the end of it. He wasn't particularly emotionally upset, but of course he was shaky as any man would be under those conditions.

I had been visiting him for about three hours. We were discussing such things as people who had been around here 12 years ago when Chessman came and whom we both knew.

We talked about men on condemned row, and who had been reprieved and who had been executed, that he knew.

He joked quite a bit about anecdotes and things that happened around the prison. He discussed his plans, what he would like to have done, such as last letters he had written.

I advised him on what procedure he would go through in the morning.

He wanted to know exactly what he was to do—in preparing for the execution—and what was expected of him. We talked about capital punishment only briefly. He said he hoped that his death would perhaps help other people from going through the same thing.

Experts Talking Of Market Hike

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street technical experts were talking Friday of a stock market advance recouping at least one-third of the January to mid-February price decline.

What will happen after that was anyone's guess, but one house asked: "Will people later turn bullish and decide not to sell? Sentiment is likely to shift with the direction of the market."

Bache & Co. commented, "It seems likely that a recovery of one-third to one-half of the ground previously lost would be a logical development at this time."

"Such an upswing would carry the Dow-Jones industrial average to the 630-645 area."

"If, however, the list is to make an attempt of approaching the old highs, a good deal of consolidation and base building will have to take place in that zone."

Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. said "There seems to be no question that the market has bottomed out and that the technical pattern calls for a one-third to two-thirds comeback of the ground previously lost."

"Profit taking offerings should be readily absorbed and while the list may have a tendency to back away temporarily from time to time, it seems likely that the technical upturn will prevail."

A bearish view of the long-term trend was taken by Prentice Hall, Inc., in its weekly publication information.

"If past patterns are any precedent," the publication said, "a technical recovery this spring may well be followed by another decline."

"While many volatile stock groups have now been considerably deflated from their 1958-59 highs, a substantially conservative position, accenting bonds and defensive stock groups, is still recommended."

The publication added: "Average stock prices have been rising in almost two-thirds of the years since fairly reliable statistics became available."

"The average length of an advance in stock prices has been about 2½ calendar years."

"Stock downswings are usually shorter than upswings. Because stock prices tend to drop faster than they previously advanced, downswings rarely last more than a year."
